Joseph Avery is a Director in Delta Consulting Group's Insurance & Recovery practice, where he oversees the quantification, evaluation and preparation of complex commercial property and business interruption insurance claims. With nearly a decade of experience spanning risk advisory, insurance claims management and forensic consulting, Joe brings an exceptional combination of analytical rigor, operational insight and client-focused leadership to every engagement.

Joe's expertise lies in helping organizations navigate major loss events, manage large-scale recovery programs and strengthen resilience through effective risk assessment and claim strategy. His experience includes leading claim evaluations for multinational corporations, financial institutions, hospitality groups and public-sector entities, often involving assets valued in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Drawing on his background with major insurers and consulting firms, Joe bridges the perspectives of policyholders, brokers and insurers to deliver well-supported, defensible outcomes for clients facing complex loss scenarios.
